

Word of the Week

Word of the Week

Humanitarian (adjective)

Are you familiar with this word?

What does it mean?

Can you use it in a sentence?

Word of the Week

{ Humanitarian (adjective) }

Definition

concerned with or seeking to promote human welfare.

Word of the Week

{ Humanitarian (adjective) }

Examples

“They were involved in sending humanitarian aid.”

“They are facing a humanitarian crisis.”

Can you come up with your own?

Word of the Week

Humanitarian (adjective)

Synonyms

Compassionate

Humane

Unselfish

Altruistic

Benevolent

Antonyms

Selfish

For-profit

Word of the Week

Humanitarian (adjective)

You may often hear the word of week used when describing a humanitarian crisis.

Generally, a humanitarian crisis is defined as an event or series of events that represents a critical threat to the health, safety, security or wellbeing of a community or other large group of people, usually over a wide area.

Word of the Week

Humanitarian (adjective)

Week of Prayer

In this week of prayer, you could ask for peace and an end to the humanitarian crises that are taking place around the world.